Message From Mr. Brown

The Musical was Amazing: Annie Jr. was a special performance by our students and staff. 40 students, 10 community adult assistants, and many more that helped provide cast meals for the Spring Production of Annie Jr. THANK YOU to all those that are putting on the show. Hope you did not miss this one!

Oakfield's Music Department had 5 Band Students participate in the Trailways North Division Honors Band in November. Students in grades 7-12 performed at 7 sporting events, 2 pep rallies, and the Homecoming Parade. 12 Oakfield Band Alumni participated in a combined pep band performance in January. 25 Band Students performed in 29 events at District Solo Ensemble. 5 Band Students will continue to State Solo Ensemble later this spring to perform in 5 events. 2 Band Students will be traveling to Ripon College to participate in their Band Festival in April. Future 6th Grade Students just learned about band instruments and got to try a few to see if they'd like to join band for summer and/or middle school. 1 High School student and 2 Middle School students are in the process of auditioning for the Wisconsin State Honors Bands/Orchestras.

14 high school choir members and 41 middle school choir members performed solos, duets, or small groups at their pop concerts in October. Members of the choir sang the national anthem at over 20 athletic events this year. 10 high school choir members took part in the Ripon College Rally Choir Festival on March 4th. 47 choir students performed in 45 events at solo-ensemble festivals in February and March. 6 of these students will perform at the state solo-ensemble on the UW-Oshkosh campus in 8 events.

1 high school student and 2 middle school students were selected to WSMA High School and Middle Level Honors Choirs in the fall of 2024.

3 high school students and 7 middle school students auditioned for the groups this year and are waiting to hear about selection.

1 high school student has been selected to the WSMA Honor Choir and will perform at the state music convention in the fall of 2025.

The musical arts have absolutely been taking center stage this year!

I would be remissed if I didn't address the impact of the failed referendum. Oakfield Elementary has been a school that has significantly exceeded expectations per DPI report card. The middle school, this year, is now a school that has grown over 17 points on the DPI report card to where the Middle School is now a school that also significantly exceeds expectations. Our high school, for 2 years in a row is ranked in the top 15% of all high schools in Wisconsin, and is the top performing high school in the county. This year we have exceeded even our hopes with our early ACT test results. Our staff serves all kids. We now have a challenge to reimagine our positive school culture--an image many of us thought we had finally overcome in the eyes of students and community members. Our staff is unified in support of our school and what we are doing at Oakfield. There is a great team effort in the buildings and we will remain a school that improves every year.

I am humbled and honored to serve this great community and our students. Thank you for the opportunity to share in the joy and pride that is Oakfield. Please contact me directly if there is ever anything I can do to continue to help move this great district forward.

Message from Mrs. Doyle

I want to extend a heartfelt THANK YOU to everyone who joined us for Family Game Night in March. The turnout was absolutely fantastic, and it was truly heartwarming to see students, parents, and staff coming together for an evening of laughter, connection, and friendly competition. Watching families engage in games and activities side by side reminded us of the powerful sense of community we share. Having our halls filled with joy and togetherness once again was a true highlight of the year.

We also want to take a moment to celebrate the completion of the Wisconsin Forward Exams for grades 3, 4, and 5. Our students came well-prepared, put forth tremendous effort, used their strategies, and truly rocked the tests! According to the Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction, we hope to receive results before the end of the school year. If so, we look forward to reviewing this data with students before they head into summer.

In addition, we completed the state-required literacy assessment, AIMSWeb Plus, for students in 4K through grade 3. This marked the third literacy assessment of the year for our early learners and is part of Wisconsin Act 20 and the development of Personalized Reading Plans. These efforts help us better understand and support each student's individual reading journey.

As we look ahead to the final stretch of the school year, there's so much to look forward to beyond the daily classroom routine. May and June promise to be full of celebration, reflection, and fun. We'll be cheering on our youngest learners at the "See Ya Later, Alligator" event for our 4K students, honoring our fifth graders as they prepare to take the next step at the Fifth Grade Promotion, and celebrating our graduating seniors with the cherished OES Senior Clap-Out tradition.

In addition, we'll be enjoying the Spring Music Concert for grades K, 2, and 4, heading out on field trips across all grade levels, and wrapping up the school year with some well-deserved fun at Field Day. So dust off those running shoes and get ready—because we're continuing to Color the World with Kindness at OES as we learn, celebrate, and play through these final exciting months.

Message from Dr. Sarah Poquette

Dear Oakfield Community,

I hope this message finds you well. It has taken me some time to write this month's letter, as I had hoped to share more positive news. Unfortunately, the outcome of the April 1 referendum was not what we had anticipated. Our operational referendum did not pass, and as a result, our district must take a different path—one that will be marked by difficult decisions and significant changes.

We are now facing a budget deficit that will force us to fundamentally alter the way we deliver educational services. Simply put, we will not be able to provide our students with the same level of support and resources they have previously received.

During the April 14 Board meeting, we presented a detailed budget forecast and an overview for the 2025–2026 school year. Included was a list of services and programs which may be eliminated due to the shortfall. At the April 28 Board meeting, the Board will be making critical decisions about which programs and services will no longer be offered. These reductions will impact everyone in our district; students, staff, and community.

Staff will be asked to do more with less. Educational tools and classroom materials may be limited or eliminated. Sports, intervention programs to support struggling students, extracurricular activities, and some professional development opportunities for teachers will no longer be available. These changes will negatively impact student learning and achievement.

This is particularly disheartening given the tremendous progress we have made in recent years. Our students' performance ranks among the highest in the region and state. Our ACT and Forward Exam test scores have continued to increase. All three of our schools have earned national recognition from the U.S. News & World Report. This setback threatens to undo much of our progress and slow the momentum we built together.

I want to be clear: I will not settle for less for our students. They do not have the power to vote, but we do. It is our responsibility to advocate on their behalf. The district will be coming back to referendum in April 2026 to ask the community for support.

Your commitment matters now more than ever. I extend my sincere gratitude to everyone who supported the referendum and to all who continue to champion our district and our students.

Sincerely,

Dr. Sarah Poquette

Students Inducted into National Honor Society

On Wednesday, January 8th, six Oakfield High School students were named to the school's National Honor Society chapter at a candlelight ceremony.

These new inductees are: Carson Fisher, Alexis Liebenow, Hailey Rothering, Krista Sabel, Caleb Simmons, and Jaelyn Wallendal.

To be eligible for membership, students must have a cumulative grade point average of 3.25 on a 4.0 scale. Members must also meet high standards of leadership, service, and character. Leadership is based on the student's participation in community or school activities. To meet the service requirement, the students must have performed some community service or school service where they did not receive monetary payment. Character is measured in terms of integrity, behavior, ethics, and cooperation with both students and faculty.

The National Honor Society ranks as one of the oldest and most prestigious national organizations for high school students. Chapters exist in three-fourths of the nation's high schools. Thousands of dollars in scholarships have been awarded to senior members since 1945 by the sponsoring organization, the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

Congratulations to all of the National Honor Society inductees!

Annabella Hartwig Selected as a Member of the State Honors Choir

The WSMA State Honors Music Project is nationally recognized as one of the finest opportunities for young people. This year, for the 2025 WSMA High School State Honors Music Project, almost 1,500 auditions were registered for 429 positions in five ensembles. Auditions included individual student performances and sight-read-ing process. Selection was based on several aspects of music performance. Annabella Hartwig, a junior member of the OHS choir, was selected to be a mem-ber of this prestigious group. Students selected for the WSMA State

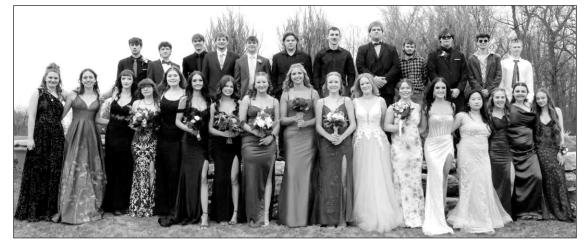

Honors Music Project will participate in an intensive and mandatory four day summer camp in June and perform in Madison during late October as part of the Wisconsin State Music Conference. This year's choir will work under the direction of Kari Adams. Kari Adams is Assistant Professor of Choral Music Education and conductor of Concert Chorale at the University of Missouri. She holds a PhD in music education from the University of North Texas as well as degrees from the University of Central Missouri and Freed-Hardeman University. Prior to her appointment at Mizzou, Adams served as Assistant Professor of Choral Music Education and director of Levana at Florida State University. In 2023, she received the Outstanding Teaching in the Major (Undergraduate) award from FSU. Before working in higher education, she taught middle school choral and general music in Knob Noster, Missouri, where she was named Teacher of the Year in 2015. She is a passionate educator, conductor, and researcher. Congratulations to Annabella on this outstanding achievement!

Family Histories

The U.S. History students have been working really hard to investigate and research their family history. This is part two in sharing the work from Mr. McCarty's classes.

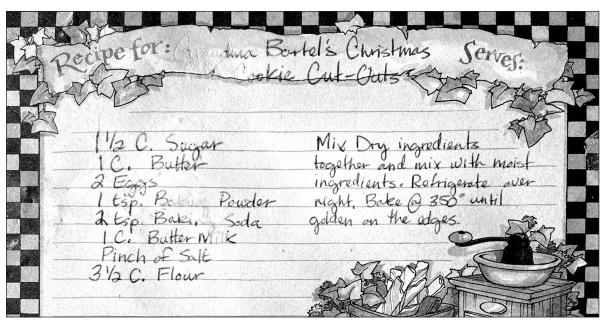

This picture shows my grandmother, Keli Winter, riding her horse JJ through a parade in February of 2006 (just a year before I was born). The picture is a little blurry since it was taken from a distance and I had to zoom in a little to try and focus on just her but I'm sure she had a big smile on her face while she rode in the front. My grandmother has always had a liking for horses. She has horse pictures, horse clothing, horse blankets, she even has 12 horses of her own. Even though she is 60 and lost one of her fingers to a horse she is still out back in the pasture everyday to make sure her babies are healthy and thriving even in the harsh weather conditions. She has put a lot of money, some may say too much money, into her horses to make sure they have the best saddles, harness, and ropes. My grandmother always tried to share her interests with us by helping us onto the horses or even just encouraging us to be around them. She definitely connected with a few of my cousins and my little sister as they are competing in barrel races with horses of their own. My grandmother will definitely continue to love horses and ride them for as long as she can. Caption by Mia Goldapske.

FAMILY HISTORIES

Adell Bartel's Buttermilk cut-out cookies. Adell (my great grandma) made recipes for many Christmas cookies, we make all of the cookies every Christmas season. The cut-outs are the fan favorite at the Potratz family Christmas and the Zimdahl family Christmas. I've made these cut-out cookies every year with my dad (Christopher Haase) and sisters (Norah & Clare Haase). We have many traditions that my dad has shown us from his parents (Peter & Denise Haase) that they got from great grandma. One of these traditions is making Christmas bells and angels and decorating them ourselves. My family made a new tradition with these cookies, we make a Christmas dinosaur, every year someone else gets to decorate it. We normally make the batter on a Friday night and bake the cookies on Saturday afternoon. This recipe is very straight forward, and you need to make sure you have the correct measurements otherwise it will not taste the same. First combine two sticks of softened butter with the sugar, then add the eggs and milk. In a separate bowl combine the flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt (when we add the salt we just add a ¼ of a teaspoon). Slowly pour and mix the dry ingredients into the wet ingredients. REFRIGERATE! This is one of the most important steps, we leave it for at least 16 hours to "ferment". Once they're done "fermenting" you roll out the dough and cut out the shapes you want. We always make at least three of everything so everyone gets the chance to decorate that shape. After they are baked you can then let them cool, then frost them with vanilla icing, and decorate with sprinkles. In total we spend about 30 minutes making the batter, 1-2 hours making the shapes, and 2 hours decorating the cookies. When we decorate these cookies we make a wide variety of sugar we put on, some we call "heart attack cookies" when you can no longer see the vanilla frosting. We only give "heart attack cookies" to two people in the family, Donald Lee (Darlene Bartel's husband) and James Haase (1939-2021, Peter Haase's father) and the dogs of course. As seen in the photo to the lower right the angel is a "heart attack cookie" and the other two are normal cut-out cookies. There also is no serving size because it depends how big of shapes you use. Caption and photos by Kate Haase.

This is a picture of Eugene Winter (Grandma Keli's dad, my Great Grandfather who died in 1986) playing the violin. According to my grandma her father played the violin all throughout high school. He's in his mid to late 50s in the picture which brought his time playing the violin to about 40 years. After his death his violin was passed down to a family member where it is still held and cherished. In his early life Eugene Had served in World War II where he specialised in both sending and receiving morse code. My grandmother also said that he had served in India as well. Caption by Mia Goldapske, photo courtesy of Keli Winter.

Dorothy Winter is my Grandma Keli's mom and my Great Grandmother who died in 1998. Dorothy was a wonderful mother, wife and cook. She mainly focused on cooking German dishes. I asked my grandmother if there was any dish that she remembered enjoying the most and she said the "7 layer dinner". She described it as a sort of casserole. We weren't able to find the recipe for it but I am aware that my grandma does have a few recipes dating back to her mother. Dorothy was a stay at home mother but also worked from home as a seamstress. She would alter clothes to fit the figure of a person's body as well as repair any holes or tears. Dorothy was told by her doctors that she would never be able to have any children of her own so to make up for that Dorothy and Eugene raised foster children. Grandma mentioned that uncle Denny, her brother, was actually one of the foster children that stuck around. This caught me off guard since I never imagined anyone in our family being adopted. But Dorothy was eventually able to have three children (my great uncle) Mark, (my grandmother) Keli, and (my great uncle) Kevin. (Caption by Mia Goldapske, photo courtesy of Keli Winter).

These photos depicted helped me notice one minor thing while visiting my Oma, Margaret Focht, that showed a major connection between my Oma and her daughter, or my grandmother, Barbara Possehl. I noticed that my Oma utilizes photos either taken by herself or received from other relatives and places them beneath a plate of glass on a table for display purposes. My grandmother has taken up this hobby herself over the past couple of years and it helps to finally realize where the idea came from. The displays show the pure mother-daughter connection the two of them share and it is quite interesting. It proves how much my grandmother adores her mother and can find a way to connect with her even when they are apart. When my Oma passes, this representation will not only remember the memory of my Oma but also the shared memories shown in the displayed photos. This activity shows that family is one of the most important things in each of their lives. Unfortunately, most people tend to not visit the eldest person in their family and this visual display might be a compensation for this. This way, even if my Oma cannot see the person physically, she can always gaze at a photo of the people she keeps underneath her glass plate. While interviewing my Oma, Margaret Focht, she said something interesting that caught my attention. She had written down some notes prior to the interview to give herself some basis and she shared her notes with me. She apologized for her thick cursive and if I was unable to read and understand what she had written. I had reassured her that I could read what she had noted and she mentioned that all throughout her schooling she was taught to write in cursive. My Oma told me that she was never taught "print" writing and only knows how to write in cursive font. This idea of only being taught to write in cursive was so astounding to me because of how our current society looks towards cursive writing. Most people nowadays find it unimportant to learn and navigate, while also not understanding how it can possibly fit into our everyday world. While being taught how to write in cursive is not quite so strange, it is so hard for me to wrap my head around that she was never taught how to write in "print," or the way almost everyone nowadays writes. What was something so important back in the mid-1900s is something that is rarely taught to today's generation of students. This little idea of the proper font of handwriting can expand to become something so monumental that it shows how much the society my great-grandparents had grown up in has changed compared to what society looks like now. Who would have guessed that something like handwriting would have an impact upon newer and what is considered modern technological advancements? Caption and photo by Madeline Meredith.

My grandma Barb has always been a "dog lover." She bred Labradors from October 1997 to August 2021. Grandma Barb made the front page of The Reporter in 1997 when her first ever litter was a "perfect litter." The litter consisted of 4 yellow labs with 2 females and 2 males, 4 black labs with 2 females and 2 males, and 4 chocolate labs with 2 females and 2 males. Grandma Barb took it as a sign to continue to breed Labradors after the almost miracle happened. It is almost hard to believe that such an event could possibly occur especially since it was her first ever litter, and yet it did. Until a couple of years ago, I have always care of puppies of all colors and assorted names. My grandma had her little tricks while helping raise the puppies; the yarn "collars," the various sound reels of objects like vacuums and other machines, the training of maneuvering the dogs through the "doggy door," and making the puppies comfortable with little crates. My grandma always found a way to satisfy the future owners of the puppies with all of her tricks and her charisma. All of her "customers" were people interconnected within her system of friends or past customers who had referred her business to their friends. This made her "customers" feel comfortable with who they were getting their puppies from, and made Barb feel comfortable that they were getting a good home. (Caption by Madeline Meredith, Photo received from Barbara Possehl.)

witnessed my grandma taking

Within reason, making and sharing a family recipe can be quite hard to do within my family. If it is a true family recipe, it is hard to find written down anywhere. The only recipes I've ever seen in my house are when my mom wants to make something she's never tried before. To obtain a family recipe, you have to cook it with another family member so you have a memory of cooking with someone you love. It becomes easier to remember a simple recipe when you recall a fond memory of doing something you might not entirely enjoy, but you're doing it with someone you enjoy quite a bit. Making lasagna was easy for me because I had been making it with my mom since I was little. I labeled it as my favorite food for years and every time something special happened to me, like a birthday or celebration of success, my mom would make the dish. As I continue to get older, I have started to realize that maybe lasagna wasn't my favorite food taste wise, but it became my favorite food because it gave me a reason to spend quality time with my mom. This is the exact reason for why we don't keep our recipes written down, because true family recipes should stay close to our hearts. (Caption by Madeline Meredith, photo by Kim Meredith.)

See America First

The See America First class is a geography, culture and history class that encourages students to travel at the local, state and national level. We were learning about Wisconsin and local places to tour, and the accompanying pictures are from our local field trip. It was a great opportunity to compare and contrast areas of Dodge and Fond du Lac County.

This is my friend Mark Mueller, a neighbor to my parents in Ashford Township. Our See America First class got to see where Mark's grandfather Joe Mueller (1893-1984) used to make maple syrup. In this image, you see the cement structure Joe used as the base for burning down maple syrup. Students also saw elements of an old growth maple forest. The structure pictured is about 100 years old. Mark explained to the class why the woods means so much to him. Caption and photo by Karl McCarty.

Our class enjoyed the trip to the Horicon Marsh and seeing St. Andrew's Church. To compare the geography, we then traveled to St. Kilian, South Eden and Eden. In between, we decided to stop at Widmer's in Theresa. The folks at the cheese factory were kind enough to give our class about two pounds of fresh cheese curds. And by fresh, I mean straight out of the vat! It was neat to see such a successful business that is part of our area history. Caption and photo by Karl McCarty.

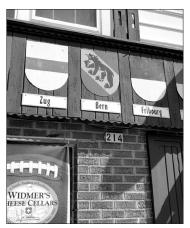

At left is Earl Kehrmeyer, 97, who drove to St. Andrew's in LeRoy to tell our class the history of the church. He explained how much the church meant to him. Fr. Mark Brandl (right) also stayed after daily mass so he could meet our class. St. Andrew's was known as "The Cathedral of the Marsh," a term Earl attributed to Fr. Anthony Gundrum (1915-1987). Students were also able to appreciate the beauty of the stained glass windows. Photo by Karl McCarty.

This is a picture aside the South Eden sign. I chose to talk about this picture because Mr. McCarty is one of the people who put South Eden on the map and got the road sign put up. This was an exciting part of the trip because we all finally got to see the sign that Mr.McCarty kept hyping up. According to Mr. McCarty, "South Eden is AWESOME! It's a Irish Catholic settlement that is in the vicinity of Scenic Dr & Timberlane Drive in the Town of Eden." Caption by Broede Collien and photo by "THE Mr.1000" (Mitchell Moser).

Mr. McCarty almost falling over by the South Eden sign. Action shots courtesy of Keira Marchenkuski.

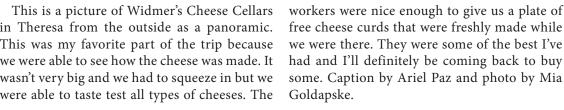

This is a picture outside of Widmer's Cheese Cellars in Theresa. In this picture there is the logo of the Canton Bern that I have on the front of my house. A canton is a subdivision of a country kind of like a county in Wisconsin. Bern is the city in Switzerland where my Great Grandpa Sam Moser lived before he came over to the U.S. I took this picture because I thought it was cool to go to a cheese cellar with Swiss background. Both my Great Grandpa and Grandpa were cheesemakers their whole life. My Grandpa used to make brick cheese, which Mr. Mc-Carty bought at the store. This was my favorite part of our trip because it was cool to connect with my Switzerland background and eat some cheese. Caption and photo by Mitchell Moser.

This was my favorite part of the trip because we were able to see how the cheese was made. It wasn't very big and we had to squeeze in but we were able to taste test all types of cheeses. The

This was one of our stops on our amazing trip! We stopped at St. Andrew's Church in LeRoy, and we learned about the history of the church. I have been playing baseball and picking up bounce houses there for many years, and I had never known the beauty of this church. I was truly amazed when I walked into the church. We got to talk to Earl Kehrmeyer about the history of the amazing wood carving on the confessionals. We also learned from Father Brandl at the church, and he told us about how this church was such a big church and had many people who spoke German. They told us that they would have both of the confessions going and one would be for English and the other for German. This was very interesting as they also told us that different ethnicities would settle in different types of land to match their home land and LeRoy was like Germany. We got to see this amazing church and got to learn a lot about it and the town around it! Caption and photo (in .5 mode) by Brent Morell.

On Tuesday April 1st my See America First Class visited the Catholic church in Leroy to talk to Earl Kehrmeyer. Earl Kehrmeyer is a 97 year old Catholic whose a walking piece of wisdom and knowledge. Earl shared his stories of being in the Coast Guard after World War II. These stories really touched me because I come from a military family and am joining the military after high school. Also his stories about Yugoslavia and Croatia really touched me because that's where I trace my family ancestry to. In specific he talked about the the Eastern Orthodox religion that dominates the counties. He also spoke about the beauty of the countries speaking highly of the islands and sea. Overall Earl Kehrmeyer is a very smart and well traveled man, I'm very honored and blessed to have met him.

I thought that the church with the stained glass was pretty and cool. Also the way that the wood was carved and the gold paint really stood out in the paintings. Another thing is that I like how the building is laid out. For example, how it's kind of "symmetrical" and if there is one thing on one side there would be something similar on the other side. Caption and photos by Keira Marchenkuski.

Our See America First class got to experience a lovely interaction with Earl Kehrmeyer. Learning about his family history was very interesting and it's sad to know the ways his family members have passed. Earl has gone to St. Andrew's since he was a young boy and it holds such a special place in his heart that he still attends mass. I was lucky enough to stay behind and get a picture with him to remember this once in a lifetime experience. He was very sweet and I could tell that him talking about his life and the St. Andrew's Church brought him joy and he could go on and on for hours. There's one thing I will always remember from Earl, "Never Shoot A Sitting Rabbit". Caption by Mia Goldapske and photo by Karl McCarty.

One of the places we visited during our trip was the St. Andrew's Catholic Church. This church is very beautiful on the inside, featuring hand carved wooden detail and a very high cathedral ceiling. In the image I am admiring the pure beauty of this grand and imposing church. One shocking thing I learned is that it costs around $100,000 just to repair the stained glass window.... talk about expensive!!! Overall this church was a magnificent place to visit. (Caption by Khloe Stanczyk and picture taken by Mia Goldapske).

This is the inside of the St. Andrew's Church, Leroy WI, this church is over 100 years old and one of the oldest churches in the county, we got to see the wood decorations that were sculpted long ago and learn about some of the Catholic beliefs from one of the priests. He also told us about the the stained glass windows and the significance of the people decorated on them, along with how much it costs to get them. Caption and photo by Kyler Collien.

This picture was taken at Ledge County Park during our first stop of our trip. We took a short walk/hike to a lookout spot over the Marsh. Once we got close we could see two turkey vultures sitting on the railing overlooking the view of the marsh. This spot gave a good view of the landscape and how it's laid out. Caption and photo by Wolfgang Stalf.

The See America First class stopped by Lehner Road in the Town of LeRoy. Eddie Lehner is a renown man of the land. In Robert Gard and Edgar G. Mueller's book, Wild Goose Marsh--Horicon Stopover, Eddie was featured in a chapter called "The Trapper." Today, his farm is now returned to the Marsh, and there are no buildings which remain. However, this road behind our students honors his story.
